

Authors To Lecture About Communism

By Roger Stuart II

• BONARO AND HARRY Overstreet, best selling authors on topics of average American reader interest, will appear in two series of College of General Studies' sponsored lectures on "Understanding Communism" beginning Feb. 1.

The authors of the best selling books: "The Mature Mind," "The Great Enterprise" and "What We Must Know About Communism" have recently returned from an extensive fact finding visit to Europe and Asia to gain first hand information for use in a new book, "What Free Men Can Do," due for publication in Spring of 1961.

Their latest book on Communism and the one now in the offing will furnish the basis for the Overstreet's University sponsored lectures.

The first series of non-credit lectures offered in the CGS adult education program will be based on the new book and will be telecast. The other series will be held at Lisner auditorium.

The television series will be broadcast over WTOP, Channel 9. The Overstreet's will appear on the University supplied "Classroom 9" during the semester break of the Russian conversation course. Beginning Feb. 1, the series will extend over Feb. 3, 5, 8, 10 and 12 beginning at 6:30 am on each of these mornings.

The campus lectures will be held on eight Monday evenings beginning Feb. 8 and will continue on Feb. 15, March 7, 14, 21, 28, and April 11 and 18. This second series will be based on their latest best seller. The lectures will begin at 7:30 pm and will last until 9:00 pm.

Price of admission for the on campus series will be $15 per person, $25 for husband and wife combined or $2 for a single lecture.

As with their past writings, the Overstreet's will approach their initiation into TV with the theory that the problems we as a nation face in combating communism may be solved if we first realize "practicality is the thing that underwrites everything else."

At a press conference preview last week of their upcoming lectures, they said, we in America, as yet, have not realized that this is the key to understanding public influence in combating this threat.

Through their studies and recent travel, the Overstreet's hope elaborate in their lectures and the new book on a rough outline of three necessities which, they feel, we must adhere to if the free world are to combat the communist threat effectively.

First, they submit that defense our allies must be the point from which we launch our aid. At present they see virtue in organizations such as NATO, but they maintain, more of the same is needed.

Secondly, they believe that the Free World, especially the United States, must help emerging Asian and African societies which are moving for the first time out of servitude and which are trying to build strong nations. In these new countries and those of our other allies, we must find what is basic to their successful growth.

Whether it be technical skills, money, communication, transportation, health or in other relevant fields, we must learn what it is and point out what the United States can do to help them and to keep them from Communist oppression, the Overstreet's said.

Thirdly, they said, we must make ourselves into a greater nation than we are today.

They pointed to the need for the increase in regional associations such as the European common market which helps to do away with "laissez faire" associations among neighboring countries.

Hi Ball Highlight

• PROFESSOR RICHARD Walton Stephens, associate professor of sociology and anthropology, will be guest master of ceremonies at the Hi-Ball Dance on Feb. 6. The dance will be at the Arlington Towers Terrace room from 9 pm to 12:00. It is a semi-formal event, open to all University students. Fred Perry and his band will play for the affair. Tickets are on sale this week in the Student Union. $7.50 reduction on a $1.50 ticket is available with Campus Combo.

But, they pointed out, this increase in regional working together needn't effect a move toward breaking down of nationalistic spirit. On the contrary, they claimed, that as nations grow under this plan, nationalism, too will be increased.

But all of these things, they concluded, mean that the United States must grow in its international obligation and keep up with this trend toward regionalism. Or as they summed it all up, "The U. S. too, must evolve in an evolving world."

'Fired' History Professor Plans Appeal To AAUP

By Aaron Knott and Roger Stuart II

• DR. RICHARD W. REICHARD, whose appointment as associate professor of history at the University was withdrawn Dec. 22, has announced his intention to appeal the decision to the American Association of University Professors.

The University suspended Dr. Reichard after his appearance before the House un-American Activities Committee last July, and after reviewing his case withdrew his appointment on Dec. 22 as of Aug. 21. Dr. Reichard did not teach at the University during his suspension.

Dr. Reichard has not yet decided exactly how he intends to handle his appeal, but he said that it will probably be based on two points. The first point, he said, is that he had a contract with the University, and the second is that no specific charges had been made against him.

The University's notification to Dr. Reichard of the withdrawal of his appointment stated that after review of his case the Faculty and the administration found him "unsuitable and unqualified to join the faculty."

Acting President Oswald S. Colclough stated that the University had followed steps "indicated by sound University procedures" which included informal discussions with members of the faculty and the administration, a conference with a committee of the faculty and administration at which he was accompanied by an adviser, and a formal hearing before a committee of the Board of Trustees, at which Dr. Reichard was accompanied by his counsel.

Dr. Reichard's qualifications came under review following his appearance before the House Committee on July 23. In his five minute appearance before that committee, Dr. Reichard invoked the fifth amendment when questioned about his connection with the Young Communist League at Harvard University from 1946 to 1949 while he was a graduate student there.

Referring to specific charges, Dr. Reichard said that he had not yet had a chance to communicate with University officials, due to the Christmas season. But he said, that he now hoped to contact the University and learn something more definite concerning reasons for his dismissal than just "unsuitable and unqualified."

Dr. Reichard stated at the time of his appearance before the House Committee that he felt that "no authority, neither the government, nor one's employer, has the right to inquire into the innermost workings of a man's mind."

He also felt that since one does not know what one will meet when he goes before the committee and that since the matters in question may concern events in the distant past that he was not able to prepare a defense. He also said that had he known the questions in advance the facts would have been hard to check and would have made defense difficult.

Dr. Reichard has said, "I bitterly resent even the most distant insinuation that I am in any way un-American. I have never participated in a conspiracy. I have never advocated the overthrow of government by force or violence."

Dr. Reichard said that the procedures which the University followed (Continued on Page 2)

Delts Finish Rebuilding; Hester To Return Soon

• THE CHRISTMAS SEASON is a time for good cheer and high spirits. In fact, some spirits were so high they still haven't come back, including auntie Hester. Our only hope is that people are too hungover to realize that we left them out. Please come home Auntie, all is forgiven.

Delta Tau Delta received the biggest present of all this Christmas, their newly rebuilt and remodeled house, and what a house!

Remodeled especially to house a fraternity, the Deltas home at 1911 G st. features all the modern conveniences and comforts from the paneled living room with its built in hi-fi system and trophy case to the foam rubber furniture throughout. On the more mundane side the basement play room sports a built in bar, and an enclosed kitchen.

To introduce their new debuteante to Colonial society, the Deltas are inviting the entire University, both faculty and students, to an open house this Friday from 3-6 pm.

Other Greeks were also out in force during the holiday season, but all the Pikes can remember is the morning after. Well, it was worth it for the fine party that raged there the night before, with all the Pilksters and dates scorning the pseudo ways of 1959.

Phi Sigma Delta got off to an early holiday with their annual Christmas party in the newly decorated basement. But tea wasn't served, and the new decoration seemed to be mostly mistletoe. Pete Enis, newly elected proxy, is said to have made several resolutions, but he isn't talking.

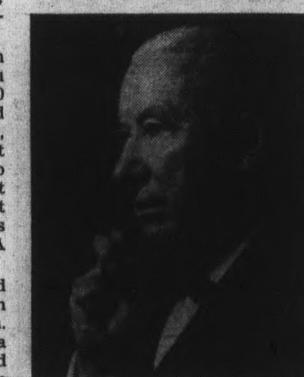

Other groups also ushered in the New Year early. Sigma Nu crowned its Sigma Nu girl of 1960 on Dec. 12. Sigma Kappa held their pledge formal on Dec. 19, and what a swinging affair that was. Jeff Young got pinned to Sara Sebott. SAE way out at Dupont Circle also did their best to welcome in the New Years with fine spirits of good proof. A swell job boys.

The University debaters talked the New Year in at an exhibition at the Statler against Fordham. Their fine performance lead to a break in the freezing weather and gave us a day or so of springlike warmth.

Kettering Foundation Commends Howard

• FRANK A. HOWARD, New York research consultant and president of the Sloan Kettering Foundation for Cancer Research, will receive the 1959 "Charles F. Kettering Award for Meritorious Work in Patent, Trademark and Copyright Research and Education."

The presentation will be made at the fourth Annual Public Conference of the Foundation, to be held June 16, 1960 in Washington.

Frank A. Howard

The award, which is presented annually by the Patent, Trademark, and Copyright Foundation of the University, is given for outstanding work in the field of patent, trademark and related areas.

Dr. Kettering, in whose honor the award is named, was a member of the Advisory Council of the Foundation, which is engaged in a comprehensive study of the principles, facts and practical operations of the patent, trademark, copyright, and related systems of the United States and other countries.

Mr. Howard holds two degrees from the University—a BS in Mechanical Engineering (1911) and an LLB (1914). From 1919 to 1944, he was president of the Standard Oil Development Company, which, under his leadership, became one of the leading technical organizations in the industrial world. He is also a trustee of the University.

Final selection of Mr. Howard to receive the Kettering Award was made by a five man Board of Review of the Patent, Trademark, and Copyright Foundation of which Acting President O. S. Colclough is a member.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editors:

I am rather dismayed to see that the University which allowed Lincoln Rockwell to speak before a class saw fit to fire Dr. Reichard of the history department.

On the one hand we have Mr. Rockwell: an uneducated, anti-Semitic, anti-negro, un-American and self-professed fascist, while on the other hand we have Dr. Reichard: a man educated at one of the finest and most respected universities in the country and considered by that university qualified to receive the highest academic degree it had to offer, that of Doctor of Philosophy.

First we see Mr. Rockwell invited to our University to speak on his un-American beliefs and then we see Dr. Reichard fired because he took advantage of a right granted him by the fifth amendment to our constitution. Frankly, I find this rather confusing.

Granted, Mr. Rockwell was invited here as a display for a social psychology class which had been warned of the propagandist tricks this man might use. But, his visit here presented an opportunity for his bigoted pamphlets to be distributed among all the students of the University, many of whom had not been oriented to methods of propaganda.

The University has found Dr. Reichard "unsuitable and unqualified to join the faculty of the university." It seems that the verdict was handed down because Dr. Reichard took the fifth amendment at a House Un-American Activities Committee hearing when asked if he was an organizer of the Young Communist League at Harvard university between 1947 and 1949.

According to newspaper reports, Dr. Reichard's ability to teach history courses objectively was not questioned, nor was it ever suggested that Dr. Reichard would use his position as a professor to spread propaganda. What was questioned was his off-campus thoughts and associations. Letters from students at Washington college, where Dr. Reichard last taught, state that he did teach his courses objectively. Dr. Reichard himself brought up his war record with the Fifteenth Air Force during World War II and strongly denies being un-American.

It appears that the University is not concerned over Dr. Reichard's ability to teach objectively (which should be of primary concern) otherwise he would not have been fired. The primary concern seems to be that the University has a man on the faculty who exercised his constitutional rights. Personally, I have great faith in the intelligence and judgment of our college students. I do not think that the mere presence of a man—alleged to have had communist associations over ten years ago—could in any way, in one semester, alter a student's beliefs from the ideals upon which our democratic government is based. On the contrary, I believe the firing of this man will make many look up and wonder whether or not our University is practicing the same ideals that it teaches.

I hope that if there are some relevant facts to justify the dismissal of Dr. Reichard, they are immediately aired and publicized so that the public will know the true story of the dismissal and not be held under any misapprehensions in this matter.

To The Editors:

At this time, on behalf of the entire staff of The Potomac magazine, I wish to extend thanks to the HATCHET for its continued support and encouragement. The coverage and publicity the paper has given throughout the semester has brought the magazine and its attempt to become a continuing University publication to the attention of many who might otherwise have remained unaware of this effort.

The cooperation which we have received is a manifestation of the mutual support which campus publications should and must have to be most effective. We have appreciated this attention, and we hope that hundreds of others likewise have appreciated it; for it has helped to make possible the magazine published in December.

Also, at this time, I want to make a public apology for a mistake made in the attribution of the short story "The Witch's Curse." This story was written by Miss Evelyn Slaughter, but was credited to Mr. DuPre Jones.

This is an apology not only to Miss Slaughter and Mr. Jones, but to all those who bought copies of the magazine before the necessary corrections were made. The error, made in the transferrence of manuscripts, should not be attributed to deliberate negligence in the editorial staff. We are still, and now even more, aware of our responsibility to attain accuracy and perfection in publication.

Again, we thank the HATCHET for its attention and support.

lowed in reviewing his case were fair, but that he feels an incorrect decision was made, and that is why he intends to appeal.

Neither committee suggested that I have used the classroom to spread propaganda." Dr. Reichard said. "Both committees were primarily interested in my thoughts and associations off campus."

When questioned about the possibility of an appeal to the AAUP, President Colclough said that the University Board of Trustees, which has the final say in matters of this kind, has made its decision.

He also pointed out that the University is not governed by what the AAUP decides.

President Colclough was aware, however, that other cases of this kind which have arisen at other universities, have brought forth statements by the AAUP of approval and disapproval of these universities' position.

He said that to his knowledge statements of disapproval of a university's action have not effected reinstatement of the professor involved.

President Colclough was empowered by the Board of Trustees to act as the only spokesman for the University.

Russian Club Holds Gay Winter Festival

Special to the HATCHET

• YOU CAN'T KILL Christmas.

Scrooge found you couldn't. In our times, the Soviet Union is also finding out you can't. For forty years, the Soviet authorities have tried to wipe out Christmas and all it stands for but they are unsuccessful.

According to the old style calendar Christmas will again be celebrated on Jan. 7, and strange as it may seem, Christmas will be celebrated in the Soviet Union. The first of January is the date of the Winter Festival. Father Frost, borrowed from folklore, is the presiding dignitary and evergreens are brought from the forest to honor him. But there is no Soviet law setting a date for the dismantling of the trees so all who wish leave them up for the Russian Christmas.

The students of the University, and through them the whole community, have an especially favorable opportunity to stretch out their hands in friendship to those behind the Iron Curtain who are now prevented from celebrating Christmas in their traditional fashion. The annual Russian Christmas party of the Russian club will be held on Jan. 7 at 8:30 pm at the Lisner lounge, 21st and

"LITTLE STORIES WITH BIG MORALS"

First Little Story

Once upon a time a German exchange student from old Heidelberg came to an American university. He lived in the men's dormitory of the great American university. He was a fine, decent young man and all the other young men in the dormitory of the great American university tried very hard to make friends with him, but, unfortunately, he was so shy that he refused all their invitations to join their bull sessions. After a while his dormitory mates got tired of asking him and so the poor German exchange student, alas, spent every evening alone, in his room.

One night while sitting all alone in his room, he smelled the most delicious aroma coming from the room next door. Conquering his shyness, he walked to the room next door and there he saw a bunch of his dormitory mates sitting around and discussing literature, art, culture, and like that. They were all smoking Marlboro cigarettes, which accounts for the delicious aroma smelled by the German exchange student.

"He smelled the most delicious aroma."

Timidly, he entered the room. "Excuse me," he said, "but what is that marvelous smell I smell?"

"It's our good Marlboro cigarettes," cried the men, who were named Fun-loving Ned, Happy Harry, Jolly Jim, and Tol'able David.

So the German exchange student took a Marlboro and enjoyed those better makin's, that finer filter, that smooth, hearty flavor, and soon he was comfortable and easy and lost his shyness.

From that night forward, whenever he smelled the good smell of Marlboro cigarettes, he always went next door and joined the bull session.

MORAL: WHERE THERE'S SMOKE, THERE'S MEYER

Second Little Story

Once upon a time there was an Indian brave named Walter T. Muskrat who had a squaw named Margaret Giggling Water. Margaret was sort of a mess but she sure could make beaded moccasins. Every day she whipped up a brand-new pair of beaded moccasins for Walter, which were so gorgeous that all the Indian maidens on the reservation grew giddy with admiration.

Well, sir, Margaret got pretty tense about all the girls making eyes at Walter and one night they had a terrible quarrel. Walter flew into a rage and slapped her on the wrist, whereupon she started crying like all get-out and went home to her mother and never came back.

"Good riddance!" said Walter, but alas, he soon found out how wrong he was, for the Indian maidens were not really interested in him, only in his moccasins, and when he stopped showing up with a new pair every day they quickly gave him the yo-heave-ho. Today he is a broken man, sitting all alone in his tepee and muttering ancient Ute curses.

MORAL: DON'T FIGHT THE HAND THAT BEADS YOU

Third Little Story

Once there was a lion which was a very quiet lion. In fact, the only time it ever made a sound was when it had a toothache.

MORAL: WHEN IT PAINS, IT ROARS

© 1960 Max Shulman

The makers of Marlboro would like to point a moral too: Nothing ventured, nothing gained. Try a pack of Marlboros or Marlboro's sister cigarettes—Philip Morris and Alpine—and gain yourself a heap of pleasure.

'Little Stars' Duel In Cage Contest

• THE GEORGE WASHINGTON cagers will face cross-city rival Georgetown tomorrow night at Uline Arena in a "must" contest in the D. C. Big Three hoop race. In order to remain in contention for Big Three honors and retain the Big Three crown won last year, the Colonials need a victory over the Hoyas to compensate for an early season loss to the other member of the trio, Maryland.

Hoya Lineup

The match is tabbed as a contest between two of the best little men Washington basketball fans have seen in many years. Georgetown is led by 5'9" junior, Brian "Puddy" Sheehan, who last year broke the all-time Hoya scoring mark by averaging over 19 points a game. Aiding Sheehan are Tom Coleman and Tom Matan, two high-scoring forwards, and Ray Ohlmueller. Others who should see much action against the Buff are 6'7" Ken Sharpener and Ed Hargaden, the team's only senior.

Coming into tomorrow night's game, the Hoya's sport a 4-5 record—the squad's most recent showing being a second place berth in the Providence Invitational Tournament.

Buff Reply

The Colonials' answer to Sheehan is 5'9" sophomore, Jon Feldman—hottest of the Buff in recent weeks. Feldman, who saw action first in GW's fifth game of the season, sports a 15.28 scoring average for the seven games in which he has played, and is topped only by George Washington's "Mr. Big" Dick Markowitz, who carries a 17.1 average. In addition, Feldman is a stellar defensive player who has converted many a steal into two point markers for the Buff.

Markowitz has proved to be the team's big gun, leading in total scoring with 205 points and in rebounding with 128 grabs.

Feldman, Markowitz Spark Buff Streak

by Mike Duberstein

• COACH BILL REINHART'S cage Colonials have developed into one of the nation's hottest fives in the past few weeks, despite the implied mediocrity of the team's 7-5 record.

George Washington started its torrid streak with a rousing 75-55 upset over the Deacons of Wake Forest on Dec. 16. The Deacons were then rated number nine in the country. Dick Markowitz led all scorers with 22 points, while John Feldman starred in setting up scoring plays. Another Colonial star was Howie Bash, who held the Deacons' highly touted sophomore, Len Chappell, to a mere eight points, while totaling 11 points himself.

Streak Continues

Two nights later William and Mary paraded into the Fort Meyer gym as the favored five. But GW took a quick 10-4 advantage, and paled by Markowitz's 20-point first half performance, stretched it to a 51-31 intermission lead. The second half was never close, and the Buff coasted to a 98-71 win.

Although GW's 4-4 record was not impressive, the Colonials entered the sixth annual Gulf South Classic as the top-seeded team. The Buff proceeded to hand the host team, Centenary, its first opening round defeat in the tournament's history. The Buff jumped to a quick 8-0 lead, but Centenary rallied to tie the game with seven minutes left in the half at 25-25, before GW went ahead at intermission, 39-37. However a hot streak by Feldman, who tallied 27 to lead all scoring, boosted the Colonials in to a comfortable margin and the 76-64 victory.

Colonial hopes for a tournament championship were shattered the next night when Northwestern Louisiana State upset GW 64-51. The Foggy Bottom five led only early in the contest, but the control tactics of Northwestern soon proved fatal. Only Markowitz with 15 points and Feldman with 11 points hit double figures for the Colonials.

In the consolation game of the Classic, George Washington trailed for nearly the entire contest before overtaking Louisiana Tech 66-63 in the last two minutes. Kunze and Feldman each contributed 15 markers for GW, while Markowitz hit for 12 and grabbed 11 rebounds.

Fresh from impressive wins over Penn and Penn State in the Keystone Invitational Tournament and holder of a 10-2 overall record Temple became the next victim of a Colonial upset, as George Washington completely squashed the Owls 101-65 on Saturday.

Former Purdue Coach Takes Over Top Buff Grid Post

by Steve Newman

Bill Elias, 35 year old backfield coach at Purdue University, was named head football coach at George Washington last Saturday. He was chosen from about 50 applicants to succeed Bo Sherman, who resigned in November after eight years at GW.

Elias, chief backfield coach under Jack Mollenkopf at Purdue, graduated from Maryland University in 1948 with a masters degree in education. The 5'11", 200 lb. coach played in the Terrapin backfield under Paul "Bear" Bryant, Clark Shaughnessy and the late Jim Tatum.

Admiral Colclough, acting President of the University, interviewed Elias when he visited the school two weeks ago and is "happy that the school is getting Elias." Athletic Director Bob Faris, who announced the appointment, said Elias "has real fine qualities and meets our needs. We are fortunate to get him."

The new coach says he is "taking the job with the idea of winning the conference championship," and says, "I intend to do it." He described himself as a "driver" who "doesn't have time for hobbies." He was not enthusiastic about the athletic facilities at GW, but says that "it's a place where I can do a job."

Elias intends to go all out to recruit "the type of young man who will be suitable academically to GW and who will help football-wise." He has ideas for a new spread T formation that he will try at GW. He emphasized that the Buff will be more exciting next season with a "pro-type offense and plenty of passing from variations of the T."

This is the first collegiate head coaching job for Elias. He played football and basketball at Martin's Ferry High (Ohio) and later at Maryland. After college he was an assistant coach at Richmond High (Ind.) for two years and then head coach for three years. His teams won the State Championship three years in a row, and he left with a 27 game winning streak in 1953 to become a coach at Purdue.

Elias arrived at the University yesterday to confer with President Colclough and Mr. Faris. Later this week he will attend the NCAA convention in New York. When he returns he will pick his own staff of assistants after interviewing any members of the present staff who want to stay here. He "wants to retain at least one member of the present staff, someone who knows the players."

The new coach is married to the former Gwen Sherman of Cheverly, Md. and is the father of three children, Candy, 10; Bill, Jr. 5; and Kelly, 4.
